

I support keeping the "Do not call list" in tact in NJ.

I should always have the right to deny entry into my home, be it in person, or electronically. If we decide to allow phone solicitation into our homes, why is there such an effort to stop "spam" on my computer? It's a double standard.

Please provide me with the home phone numbers of any government official supporting the dismantling of the current "do not call" list, and I will gladly forward them all telemarketing calls as they disrupt me in my private residence.

Thanks.
